İslam Religion

Religion is universal. The God has been sent to all mankind, and in doing so he has essentially adopted justice. In this justice, The God treated all people equally. No white has superiority over black and no rich over poor. Everyone has to make the rules of religion equally. Otherwise, God's justice will disappear and there will be conflicts among all people. Allah is righteous, and The God has established order in the world with His own justice. The God has provided equal rules to everyone without separating anyone. But people have tried to implement their order against this justice and equality of Allah. They have never achieved peace among people. Because within each order they found an advantage and opportunism. The only order to ensure peace and justice is Allah's order.
